MRS. VINCENT RESIGNS AS ALUMNI PRESIDENT

Mrs. Annette Vincent has resigned as President of the Oglethorpe Alumni Association. Mrs. Vincent has proven time and again that she is one of Oglethorpe's most enthusiastic and loyal alumni. In fact, it took stern advice from her physician for her to make the decision.

All alumni and friends of the college extend Mrs. Vincent a wish for complete recovery and give our sincere thanks for her outstanding contributions to the college—EDITORS.

Van K. Brock, assistant professor of English at Oglethorpe is a poet of national renown. His poem, "The Sea Birds," was published in the October 23 issue of The New Yorker magazine. We proudly reprint his poem with the author's permission.

THE SEA BIRDS

by VAN K. BROCK

No light except the stars, but from the cliff
I saw in motion, out on the rolling waves,
The white sea birds that swim beyond the surf.

Their movements made a pattern on the mauve,
Contorted stretch of cold, corrosive water,
Where even the images of stars dissolve.

When I had thought the birds were fixed in order,
I saw the swimming rim of their starlit ring
Minutely swerve and spiral toward the center;

The birds that had been swimming in between
Were shuttled outward on a wheel of light,
Reflecting, like the sea, the stars' design.

I paused, and looked, and saw a star burn out
And sink back into space as through a fissure.
It was an ancient word without a thought.

Perhaps birds love the pattern for the measure
It imposes on the ruptured waves at night;
Perhaps they spiral purely for their pleasure.

While I was trying to untie this knot,
A motion in the motion of the weather
Turned, and the birds turned, too, and tore the net

I knitted for them. (A star had torn another
I had knitted for stars.) I saw them climb the gale
That drove small arrows in through every feather—

One by one they spread their flapping sails.
I think the stars are moving in a school
With restless birds above a freezing pool,
And no one shall put salt on their bright tails.

Ted D. Bayley, Jr., New Alumni President

Ted D. Bayley, Jr., has been named president of the Oglethorpe Alumni Association. He replaces Mrs. Annette Vincent who had to resign the office due to ill health.

Mr. Bayley is the District Scout Executive of the Atlanta area council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Throughout his high school and college career Bayley found time to participate in many extra-curricular activities while maintaining a high scholastic average.

After transferring to Oglethorpe from the University of Florida, Mr. Bayley became treasurer of the Junior Class, then president of the student body in his senior year. He was selected for Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities in 1958.

Mr. Bayley was a member of the Blue Key, honorary leadership fraternity, and Boars Head, honorary scholastic fraternity, and president of the Westminster Fellowship.

In athletics, he was manager of the basketball team and received his letter in baseball in 1958.

Mr. Bayley received the Oglethorpe Award of Merit for the outstanding Male Graduate at his graduation ceremony in 1958.

Shortly after his graduation from Oglethorpe, Mr. Bayley married the former Ellen Kinsey, and they are the parents of three daughters, Angela, Barbara, and Karen. His 'sons' are all the Boy Scouts in this area.

Mr. Bayley is a captain in the United States Marine Corps Reserve. He joined the Reserves in January, 1957, while still a student at Oglethorpe. He graduated from the Officer Training Course at Quantico, Virginia, and was commissioned and entered active duty in July, 1958. For three years, Mr. Bayley served as an artillery officer and an air observer in the Marine Corps.

As a youngster, Mr. Bayley was an eager and active Boy Scout. He was an Eagle Scout and a member of the Order of the Arrow in scouting.

After leaving the Marine Corps he entered scouting professionally, and has been with the Boy Scouts of America ever since. He attended the 235th National Training School for Professional Scouters, then served as Camp Director, OA Lodge Advisor, and Director of the Junior Leader Training Camp in Augusta, Georgia. He was transferred to Atlanta in November, 1964.

Since his return to Atlanta, Mr. Bayley has become an active member of the East Point Rotary Club, the American Humanics Foundation, and the Oglethorpe College Alumni Association.

Dr. Cressy

Mr. Pinholster

Garland F. Pinholster and Dr. Cheever Cressy have been named Vice-Presidents by Dr. Paul R. Beall, President of Oglethorpe.

Mr. Pinholster has been named Vice-president for Development and Dr. Cressy has been appointed Vice-president for Academic Affairs and Dean of the College.

Mr. Pinholster will spearhead an area described by Dr. Beall as "most important to the college's successful program for growth." Development encompasses the school's vital need for new buildings, new money and new students.

The author of four books on basketball, Mr. Pinholster is currently at work on another book on the techniques of the game. The new book is scheduled for publication early next year.

Mr. Pinholster has served as chairman of the Governor's State Council on Physical Fitness, and in the spring of 1963, he was selected by the United States Olympic Committee as head coach of the United States basketball team for the Pan American and World Games.

Pinholster and Cressy Vice-Presidents

A charter member of the Oglethorpe Athletic Hall of Fame, Mr. Pinholster will also continue to guide the college's athletic programs.

Like Mr. Pinholster, Dr. Cressy is a long-standing member of the Oglethorpe Faculty. Dr. Cressy graduated magna cum laude from Tufts University in Medford, Mass. He received his masters and Ph.D. from Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, located on the Tufts' campus.

Before coming to Oglethorpe, he taught at Tufts University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine.

Dr. Cressy still teaches his course in International Relations, and finds time to do research on a subject of particular interest to him, the personal diplomacy of heads of states, particularly that between President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada.

Dr. Cressy finds time in his busy schedule to serve as Lecturer and Discussant for the Atlanta and Fulton County School Systems World Affairs Seminars, and is much in demand to speak on international relations on radio, television, and before civic and church groups.

Dr. George C. Seward, former Vice-President and Dean, resigned late in the summer in order to fulfill a long cherished ambition of Foundation work. Dr. Seward had been at Oglethorpe for 21 years.

ALUMNI SETS $30,000 GOAL

The Officers and Directors of the Oglethorpe Alumni Association met recently to map plans for alumni giving at Oglethorpe and set a goal of $30,000 to be raised for the coming year. The meeting was the first for President Ted Bayley in his new capacity. Over-all, nine Officers and Directors attended the meeting.

The $30,000 goal was set on the basis of 1050 contributors.

A Special Gifts breakfast meeting was held on November 12 and the campaign was formally inaugurated. Later this year, a Tele-Fund Committee consisting of women alumni and alumni wives will initiate a telephone campaign throughout the five-county area.

The Alumni group also set January 8 as Homecoming Day. Festivities will include a reception for all alumni at Cranham, the college home of the President, followed by a basketball game with arch-rival Georgia Southern.

The next Alumni Directors' meeting will be held on December 1 at noon in Decatur. Ansel Paulk is hosting the group at the Executive Club.

Cash Named Director of Alumni Affairs

Charlie Cash has been appointed Director of Alumni Affairs by President Paul Rensselaer Beall.

Mr. Cash replaces Mrs. Joyce Minors who resigned earlier this summer.

Joining Oglethorpe in April as Director of Public Relations, Mr. Cash will continue in this capacity in addition to his new duties.

Both Alumni and Public Relations will report to the Vice-President for Development in the college's organizational structure.

Five Ph.D.'s Added to Oglethorpe Faculty

Five Ph.D.'s have been added to the faculty of Oglethorpe College for the fall trimester of 1965.

Dr. Paul R. Beall, President of the College, said that these new faculty appointments are a part of the enlargement of the Oglethorpe faculty occasioned by the expansion program of the liberal arts college.

Dr. Ajit Narhari Bhagat, who holds a doctorate from the University of Bombay in India, will join the Division of Social Studies as Assistant Professor of Economics. Dr. Bhagat has lately been associated with a research project of the Agency for International Development (AID) at the University of Wisconsin. He was earlier associated with the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East of the United Nations, serving with the Economic Development Branch in Bangkok, Thailand. Dr. Bhagat's undergraduate work was done at Gujarat University in India, and he holds the M.A. degree also from the University of Bombay, where he was a member of the faculty.

Dr. Sandra T. Bowden has received an appointment as Assistant Professor of Biology. She will replace Dr. Joseph M. Branham who has received a research grant for study in Scotland for the academic year 1965-66. Dr. Bowden is a graduate of Georgia Southern College, and she holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Jack Brien Key has been appointed Assistant Professor of History. Dr. Key was a member of the faculties of the University of Alabama, the U. S. Naval Academy, and Auburn University. His doctorate is from the Johns Hopkins University, and he holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from Birmingham Southern College and Vanderbilt University respectively.

Dr. Lorella A. McKinney has been appointed Associate Professor of Education. Dr. McKinney has previously served on the faculties of Emory University, Ohio Northern, and Ohio State. She holds the Ph.D. degree from Ohio State University and the M.A. from Ohio State. Dr. McKinney received the B.S. in Education from Ohio Northern University where she was the highest ranking graduate of her class.

Dr. Vera B. Zalkow joins the science faculty as Associate Professor of Chemistry. Dr. Zalkow comes to Oglethorpe from Oklahoma State University where she was a research associate. She holds the Ph.D. from Wayne State University, the M.A. degree from Smith College, and the B.S. degree from the University of Michigan. She has also held research positions at the University of Virginia, Smith College, and Wayne State.

The fall trimester at Oglethorpe began October 1.

The formal Opening of College ceremonies were held October 4 in the Oglethorpe Field House. Dr. Paul Rensselaer Beall, president of the college formalized the affair by capping Senior Class President Bill Garrigan. Dr. Cheever Cressy, new vice-president for Academic Affairs and Dean of the College gave the main address.

Development Report

by Garland Pinholster

Mr. Dick Loughborough, Trust Officer of the Fulton National Bank, will begin a series of articles in this issue of the Flying Petrel. His aim is to give all persons interested in Oglethorpe information about trusts and wills. He begins this series of articles at our invitation. During his 10 years at the Fulton National Bank as a trust officer, Mr. Loughborough has accumulated a portfolio of several million dollars in bequests for Oglethorpe College. His daughter, Carolyn, is a loyal Oglethorpe alumnus. He is an expert in estate planning. Most of these funds were set aside for Oglethorpe as a direct result of Mr. Loughborough's knowledge of inheritance tax legislation. Virtually all of these funds would normally have gone to the Federal Government in form of inheritance taxes.

We hope, through this series of articles, you will become better acquainted with estate planning and tax laws so that you can better plan for your family and still include those philanthropies closest to your heart. We obviously hope that Oglethorpe College will have a prominent place in these philanthropies.

A detailed financial report for this current fiscal year is included. One of our aims is to keep our alumni and friends informed on the progress of each fund. At the end of the year a report will be given showing the name of every contributor and how the money is spent. We are currently making a strong appeal to corporations and foundations.

We now have four full-time admissions counselors. A fifth one is to be hired in the near future. I am sure all of you are aware by now of our two million dollar loan from the Federal Government for the building of student housing and a student union. Oglethorpe is on the move. No matter where the majority of our funds come from the alumni drive will be the most significant avenue of assistance. We need your financial boost. We need your enthusiasm. We need your interest.

YOUR LEGACY

by DICK LOUGHBOROUGH

Fulton National Bank
Vice President and Trust Officer

Your legacy . . .

From the past you have inherited a precious thing—your diploma. The lives of our alumnae have been enriched and made more secure by Oglethorpe.

Equipped with our college education, and with the courage of those who built for our future, we now seek ways to secure tomorrow.

Do you have a will? Every single one of us should—to preserve our estate and to protect our families.

Many alumnae have named Oglethorpe in their wills—some amounts small and some large. But whatever the amount, it will insure the future of Oglethorpe and the world of tomorrow.

With proper planning, it is possible for you to remember Oglethorpe in your will and still leave more for the financial security and well-being of your family.

An elderly lady dropped in last week to review her estate plan. She had an estate of about $300,000, an aged mother about 85, and a sister about her own age. The financial security of her mother and sister were of prime importance to her. Under her former will, Uncle Sam would have collected about $60,000 in estate tax. By leaving a portion of her estate to Oglethorpe College and two charities at the death of the survivor of her mother and sister, her estate tax has been reduced from $60,000 to about $3,000. This not only means that she has saved about $57,000 in estate tax, but she has provided greater financial security for her mother and sister.

With proper planning, possibly you can effect tax savings and still do more for your family.

A Letter From The President

Dear Fellow Alumni:

I'm sure that you have noticed that Oglethorpe is on the move! The student body is the largest in modern history. The campus is clean, bright, and building. Items of real quality education have been added. The faculty has been enlarged. Oglethorpe—its student body—its faculty—its administration and its board of trustees are not content to be propelled on the tide of American prosperity. They desire to contribute to this success and ultimate victory.

As president of the Alumni Association, it is my hope that we, as alumni, will not be content to ride the coat tail to success, but will join in this Forward Oglethorpe move with the gusto of real supporters.

Regardless of the years of your association with Oglethorpe, I'm sure that you can recall warm memories, and have benefitted from what you received. I hope that you share with me the pride that Oglethorpe is still a small, private, liberal arts institution, offering a quality education in a world that more and more demands the "mass" approach.

Once again our alma mater is looking to us for support. It needs our spirit, enthusiasm, and yes, our financial support. Regardless of your circumstances, you are in a position to offer your contribution in these areas. In a few days you will receive more information about the 1965-66 Forward Oglethorpe campaign. Your support, large or small, will make a difference. I sincerely hope you will give this campaign every possible consideration.

So, welcome aboard! I'm looking forward to meeting you in the coming months at one of our alumni gatherings. Best wishes to you and your loved ones.

Sincerely,

TED D. BAYLEY

President National Alumni Association

John I. Thompson, Oglethorpe trustee; Congressman James A. Mackay; and Henry Loomis, Deputy Commissioner of Education, discuss the Office of Education's participation in undergraduate education through grants, facilities and research. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare recently awarded Oglethorpe $30,000.00 in work-study scholarships. The federal government under President Lyndon B. Johnson's administration has broadened the scope of participation in education, primarily through the Office of Education.

THROUGH THE YEARS

Robert Ogden Brown, '24, a vice-president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, has been elected to the board of directors of the American Bible Society in New York City. # A House SHOULD Be A Home

President Paul Rensselaer Beall issued a challenge for architects on the new dormitory complex and student union buildings, yet to be constructed. We would like for our alumni to read Dr. Beall's essay—Editors.

This fall (1965), action and growth dominate the atmosphere on the campus at Oglethorpe College.

Our student enrollment is approximately double that of a year ago.

We have credits for $2,000,000 for use to begin to build new dormitories and our student union.

In the next decade (if we succeed as we expect and propose to), we will spend ten to thirty million dollars building Oglethorpe College.

Our most urgent concern at the moment is a master plan for the college and architectural conceptions to support our master plan.

As a dedicated liberal artist, I incline to traditionalism. I agree with Mr. Justice Holmes, especially in the hysterical atmosphere of modern times, that "We need education in the obvious more than investigation of the abstruse."

This does not mean that I am reactionary. Once or twice a year I manage a visit with my artist friends at Big Sur. Of the "way-out," these folks are the outest, yet I suspect that two of them, a writer and a primitive painter, will live.

I enjoy contemporary writers (Mencken, Thurber, Runyon, Graves, Steinbeck, Mann, King, Day, and many others) as much as the classicists.

On my first trip to Oslo I had a free day-and-a-half to see Norway. I spent all of my whole free day in the incomparable Vigeland Sculpture Park. Here is contemporary sculpture the equal of Phidias, Michelangelo or Rodin.

I enjoy some great things in contemporary architecture: the Pentagon, Radio City, a new sheet-rolling mill in Steubenville. If these structures weren't contemporary they would be travesties.

I do not know of any modern hotel in the same class for function or beauty (including plumbing) as such old masterpieces as the Waldorf, Drake, Broadmoor and Huntington. This is understandable and no fault of architects, since the purpose of the architecture in a modern hotel (as in a passenger automobile) is to get by and make money. The public can go jump.

I think that the mission of the liberal arts is to awe and inspire the student with the magnificence of the best in his cultural heritage.

Our cultural heritage is the lasting traditional and conventional. Most every contemporary thing is incessantly on trial to see if it will be good enough to become traditional.

I know that today's techniques in nuclear applications and computer analysis are the best ever. (Ergo, there's been no other!) I sincerely think that contemporary teen-age haircuts, style for the guitar, structureless theatre, meaningless poetry, atonal and formless music, ridiculous painting, and Bible editions that would monkey with the poetry of the Psalms or the style of the Good Samaritan parable in the King James Version, etc.; most such "red-hot-hit" goodies are on trial.

That I happen to be disenchanted with some of these things is totally beside the point.

In the liberal arts, it behooves us to expose our students to their heritage so that they have a frame of reference in evaluating contemporary hysterics.

My superbly articulate colleague, Dr. Wallace M. Alston, has said of the pace and mood of modern times,

We feel pushed, crowded, strained, and breathless. We are conscious of being too busy to be good members of our families or good citizens of our communities; too busy to become good students; to busy to enjoy music, good reading, and art; too busy to be good friends and neighbors; too busy to pray; too busy to think.

It is my purpose and ambition in continuing to build Old (1835) Oglethorpe to have our architecture resist rather than reflect contemporary "strain and breathlessness." For this reason I favor architecture for Oglethorpe College that may be readily recognized for its indebtedness to a traditional past.

An architect explained to us that the campus design of school "X" (traditional) pleases parents, uncles, cousins, sisters, aunts, students and youngsters who would like to be students—in fact, all of Mr. Public; but the architecture of school "Y" (very modern) pleases architects, and that should be our test and goal. I am skeptical that our most sophisticated public taste is so vacuous.

It is fascinating to be with some "public"; men, women or children, domestic or foreign, and take them to see the Chapel of a great new university. Everyone guesses, "What is it?" Veterinary medicine, ballistics research, fine arts?

A church? Oh.

Religion, tending to be slightly traditional, isn't it sensible that a church look like a church? Just as an aside, I am so idealistic that I suspect a non-religious genius of an architect could not design a great church.

I have a delight in driving twice a day over off-traffic streets between Tuxedo Road and Oglethorpe College through a residential neighborhood without peer for magnificence, charm and beauty in the world. I don't make such a statement flippantly. I know such neighborhoods well as Grosse Pointe, the Main Line, Westchester, Long Island, Pasadena, Pebble Beach, and others. I have never seen a more beautiful residential section than the above-mentioned Atlanta neighborhood. There doesn't seem to be much contemporary architecture in this neighborhood.

I know the merit of much contemporary structural technic that is economical. Certainly we must use the sensibly-indicated modern materials, components and fabricating methods. Too frequently, however, a quick-and-dirty method proves to be cheap and so is adopted as vogue. Example: it is quite the thing nowadays in painting a room to, by jiminy, paint it. Blind labor is satisfactory. Paint being selected, walls, woodwork, light and switchplate, picture moulding, window frames, door-knobs, lockplates and key are painted. A cat walking in on such a paint job does so at his peril. The ultimately cheap paint job. Half of the beautiful rooms in Old Oglethorpe have been so painted. We have restored some of them and hope to rescue others.

I am familiar with a small, modern college dormitory that has the merit of being an original. It may not be fair to associate this building's modernness with its poor function, but all it needs is fixing. The roof leaks, the rooms have no soundproofing, linoleum floor tiles are always missing, plywood room doors have holes in them, the shingles curl, exterior wood trim is splitting, and the screens must be replaced. Who can afford such an inexpensive building?

With gentle illustrations and restrained understatement, I have been trying to communicate the idea that my enthusiasms are slight for building a contemporary-architecture Oglethorpe campus.

We don't hate everything since the Greeks nor do we want Easter-hat architecture where a slab-sided box having been decided upon for structure then the daily doodad must be selected for style signature. Shall we try a Greek Orthodox onion turret, a waffle screen, dentils upside down, or possibly a nine-pointed star?

If I have made any of my conviction clear, is there in our page-and-a-half of small print yellow-page listing of architects a superbly good professional who can sincerely share any of my view? Nothing, it would seem to me, would be sillier or more presumptuous than for me to undertake to change an architect's convictions.

Replies and comments on this essay are solicited. I am especially anxious, needless to say, to discover if I have any support.

Architects Named for Oglethorpe Expansion Program

by Charlie Cash

"Dr. Beall felt that he could communicate with us."

So stated Francis Sheetz of Sheetz and Bradfield in Atlanta, during an informal press conference recently concerning the appointment of his firm as the architects for the expansion program at Oglethorpe. Earlier in the day, President Paul Rensselaer Beall had formally announced that Mr. Sheetz and his partner Richard Bradfield had been selected by a special committee of trustees to make the formal plans for the new men's and women's dormitory complex and the student activities building.

A new library follows on the agenda of new buildings planned at Oglethorpe.

Mr. Sheetz said that the current architecture at Oglethorpe, "is one of the finest examples of traditional architecture in this part of the country." His partner, Mr. Bradfield, echoes: "The style at Oglethorpe represents the best of traditional architecture." Both men hastily reminded that to continue the present style would cost about 6 to 8 times more than when the buildings were constructed almost fifty years ago. Mr. Sheetz continued: "Oglethorpe's Tudor Gothic style has a heritage and we'll capture the character of this style in our new designs."

Both men had thoroughly digested President Beall's essay on architecture, printed elsewhere in this issue, and stated that they plan to maintain the integrity of the current quadrangle. They also said that traditional form is not as important as traditional character in developing the new project.

Examples of the Sheetz and Bradfield Company's work are: the First Federal building downtown, the Phi Gamma Delta house at Georgia Tech, the Jacksonville Beach Development, and the much-heralded Gulf Oil service station at the airport. The latter has received international recognition for its ingenuity in design.

"Realizing that most of these buildings are contemporary in design, we might add that we are proud of several savings and loan buildings and a Town Hall for a neighboring community that do reflect the traditional nature," Sheetz said.

Dr. Beall issued the challenge. The challenge has been answered by two obviously gifted young men.

Sheetz and Bradfield—it's your move!

Teams Set for Oglethorpe Invitational Tourney

Delta State College, Pfeiffer College, and Belmont College will join the Oglethorpe Stormy Petrels as participants in the Oglethorpe Invitational Tournament on December 20 and 21.

The announcement of the tourney teams was made by Garland Pinholster, Oglethorpe athletic director and coach of the Petrels.

Sporting the best record from last season is Belmont from Nashville, Tenn. The Rebels rang down the curtain with a 21-7 won-lost record. The Volunteer Athletic State Conference members are coached by Wayne Dobbs, a Petrel graduate of 1961.

Pfeiffer College, from Misenheimer, N. C., has no record about which one would blush. Francis Essic's Falcons won twenty while losing only nine games during the last campaign.

Delta State College is located in Cleveland, Miss., and last year they won eleven games out of eighteen. The Statesmen are coached by James Murrell who has a 3 year lifetime record of 40 wins and 25 setbacks.

The Stormy Petrels lost the final game of last year's tournament to Bel-larmine, 65-64. Prior to this defeat, Oglethorpe had won the title for four straight years. The Petrels had a lack-lustre 11-12 record last season, but with several returnees plus a few bright freshmen prospects, the Petrels hope to improve their mediocre showing of last year.

Since assuming the reins at Oglethorpe in 1956, Pinholster has amassed a glowing 158 wins against 61 losses.

Coach Friday Named Honorary Coach

Coach Friday has been added to the Petrel basketball coaching staff. The famous Channel 5 (WAGA-TV) football prognosticator was named an honorary coach at ceremonies during the Petrel's press day on October 14. Coach Garland Pinholster made the formal presentation in front of a smiling band of Oglethorpe basketballers and representatives of all of Atlanta's press, radio and television corps.

Coach Friday, who answers professionally to Jane Steppe was similarly honored last year by Slippery Rock College in Pennsylvania, who made her an honorary football coach. Oglethorpe becomes the first to give her the basketball honor.

The charming new coach immediately went into action by drilling the Petrel troops. The players said that her passes were the greatest.

Oglethorpe to Play Puerto Rican Olympic Team in February

Oglethorpe College will play the Puerto Rico Olympic team on February 23 at Oglethorpe Field House.

The contest will be of an exhibition nature since it will not count as an NCAA game for Oglethorpe.

The Puerto Ricans placed fourth in the overall basketball standings at the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo. Lou Rossini, New York University coach, masterminded the Puerto Rico team in Tokyo and has worked with them during the summer months this past year.

Jerry Shipp of the Phillip's Oilers, who was one of the stars on the 1964 U.S. squad, says that the Puerto Rican club gave the United States champs more trouble than any other team in the Olympics. "They led us for almost three-quarters of the game," Shipp related, "and although the final score of 62-42 looks as if we clobbered them, it wasn't true. We caught fire in the last few minutes and won going away." Shipp says the Puerto Ricans are strong on the boards, are good shooters, and excellent ball handlers. According to Shipp, "their outstanding weakness is bench strength."

Oglethorpe Coach Garland Pinholster is also familiar with the Puerto Rican team. He was coach of the 1963 squad in the Pan-American games that played the Puerto Ricans. The Petrel coach said the pattern of that game was almost identical to the Olympic contest. "We won by the same point spread," says Coach Pinholster, "and trailed until late in the game." Pinholster also says that the Puerto Rican aggregation is much stronger than the Peru Olympic squad that the Petrels trounced 89-66 in Atlanta two years ago.
